Atlanta, October 20, 2009 – The Supreme Court of Georgia today refused to issue a stay of execution for Mark Howard McClain. All the Justices concurred in denying both his motion for stay of execution and his application for a certificate of probable cause to appeal.

McClain, 42, is scheduled to be executed tonight at 7:00 p.m. by lethal injection at the Georgia Diagnostic and Classification Prison in Jackson, GA. He was sentenced to death for the 1994 murder of Kevin Brown, a Domino's Pizza store manager.
